Best Practices

1. My Book in My Library

1. Objective:

To enrich affinity of staff and students, cultivate study habit and create good academic atmosphere.

2. The Context:

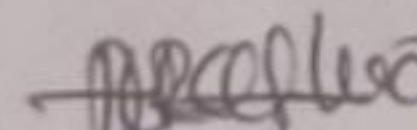

Library which is the heart of our institution provides ample resources for our academic achievements. As part of practice staff and students donate the books to the library on the occasion of their birthday.

3. The practice:

This is helpful to cultivate study habit for faculty and students and also develops affinity among them to unfold talents and stimulate the need for achievements. Donated books are kept separately and used as reference sources for both academic and competitive exam purpose.

4. Evidence of success:

- The Birthdays of students and staff are celebrated and the photographs are circulated in social medias of our groups
- Separate ledger is maintained in the library which includes the details of the donors and books author, title etc.
- 44 Books have been collected worth Rs.16,265/- during the academic year 2023-24.

Best Practices

2. Vehicle Free Day

Our college observes Vehicle-Free Day on every Saturday

1. Objectives:

- To reduce carbon emissions.
- To keep campus free from noise and air pollution.
- To raise awareness on global warming and climate change.
- To promote the health of the staff and the students.

2. The Context:

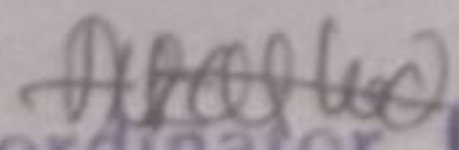

Air pollution is one of the largest environmental health risks in India. Air pollution can cause cardiovascular and respiratory diseases as well as cancer and is the leading environmental cause of premature death. Environmental noise levels are rising in urban areas mainly as a result of increasing traffic volumes. Several directives have been adopted to limit pollution from road transport by setting emission performance standards for different categories of vehicles. Our college is contributing something to reduce air pollution and noise pollution by observing vehicle-free day on every Saturday.

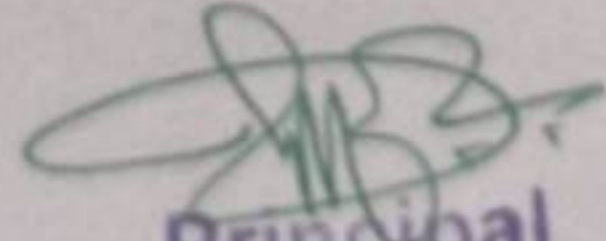

3. The practice:

- The college observes vehicle-free day on every Saturday.
- The college is making a significant impact in protecting our environment.
- It was also an attempt to raise awareness about global warming and climate change and combat daily carbon emissions.

4. Evidence of success:

- The staff as well as students attend college without their vehicles.
- The staff as well as students who live near the college come to college on foot which help them promote their health.
- The college is free from air pollution and noise pollution on every Saturday.
- No vehicles are visible on College campus on every Saturday.
